

SAILED THE SEAS 38 YEARS.

One of His Experiences.

For thirty-eight years Capt. Lord followed the sea, most of that time as master of a vessel, and upon retiring from the water was appointed by the Secretary of the United States Treasury to superintend the seal fisheries in Alaska, which position he held five years. He relates one experience as follows:

"For several years I had been troubled with general nervousness and pain in the region of my heart. My greatest affliction was sleeplessness; it was almost impossible at any time to obtain rest and sleep. Having seen Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and New Heart Cure did more for me than anything I had ever taken. I had been treated by eminent physicians in New York and San Francisco without benefit. I owe my present good health to the judicious use of these most valuable remedies, and heartily recommend them to all afflicted as I was."—Capt. A. P. Lord, Hampden, Me.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and New Heart Cure are sold by all druggists or by direct order from Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5, express prepaid. They are free from all opiates and dangerous drugs.

Sold by druggists everywhere.

MURDER.

Iverson Hicks Meets a Cruel Death at the Hands of Green Lindsey.

Late Saturday afternoon intelligence of a brutal murder reached this city, the scene being J. P. Blanton's place one mile west of town. A TIMES reporter was sent out to investigate and reached the scene while the coroner's jury was investigating the affair.

It seems that Saturday afternoon Iverson Hicks and Green Lindsey, both colored tenants on Mr. Blanton's farm, became involved in a quarrel over some trivial matter. The dispute waxed hot, and Lindsey struck Hicks, who was an old man, several blows with his fist. This was at the barn. Hicks had a hayfork in his hand, and while Lindsey was attacking him again, struck him two blows with that implement, inflicting a couple of ugly gashes and breaking the tines off the fork. Hicks became frightened and ran northeast across the field toward the Little Rock and Memphis railroad tracks. Lindsey started in pursuit, but several colored men who had been attracted by the row caught and held him, begging him to desist. He finally broke loose from them, however, and started after Hicks. The peace-makers hurried toward the railroad, hoping to overtake them and prevent further trouble. When they reached the railroad nothing could be seen of Hicks or his pursuer. They went east a short distance and then started back across the field in the direction of the barn. Presently they heard some one talking in a subdued voice, and, following up the sound, came upon a horrible sight. Lindsey was sitting astride the prostrate body of Hicks, stabbing it with a pocket knife. Lindsey was pulled off the body of his victim, delivering a farewell stab as he was dragged away. Hicks was then nearly dead, and died a moment later. There were sixteen cuts and slashes about the head and throat and on the shoulder. His throat was cut almost from ear to ear. His eyes, nose, mouth and ears were filled with mud, and mud also covered his entire body.

The remains were finally placed in a wagon and taken to the barn where Squire P. D. Boyle impaneled a jury and held an inquest, when the above facts were developed.

Constable Feltt (colored) arrested Lindsey and held him until the arrival of Sheriff Williams, when he was brought to town and lodged in the new calaboose.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict to the effect that Iverson Hicks came to his death from knife wounds inflicted by the hands of Green Lindsey. The body was brought to town, taken to Lutz's undertaking establishment, prepared for burial and turned over to friends.

There was an extremely bitter feeling among the negroes against Lindsey and some wild talk of lynching was indulged in by some of the indiscreet colored men, but better counsel prevailed and the attempt was not made. Hicks was an old man, peaceable in disposition and had, so far as we have been able to learn, never been mixed up in any row before. Lindsey, on the other hand, is regarded as a "bad nigger," always in trouble, and has threatened the lives of several men.

BRIGADIER-GENERAL GEO. PRESLEY TAYLOR,
OF THE ARKANSAS STATE GUARD.

Just as we were about to close the forms of THE TIMES last week, we learned of the appointment of our friend and fellow-citizen, Hon. Geo. P. Taylor to the position of Brigadier-General of the Arkansas State Guard. In the hurry to catch mails and get the paper out on time, we could not give the time and space which we would have done under other circumstances, to expressing our feelings of pride at one of our citizens being thus honored, and to extending proper congratulations both to our friend Gen. Taylor, and to the State Guard, on his selection.

It has long been known to THE TIMES that Governor Fishback has the levellest head in the state, and that he knows when and what to do at any and all times and under all circumstances. On behalf of the citizens of St. Francis county, and, in fact, of the whole of Eastern Arkansas, we thank him for his wise selection and the honor conferred upon one of our best and most highly respected citizens. It is appreciated the more because wholly unsought and undesired, and accepted only in order to restore harmony among the soldier boys. General Taylor is a man among men and enjoys the friendship of perhaps a larger number of personal acquaintances than any man in Eastern Arkansas. Of magnificent physical proportions, standing over six feet high and weighing above 195 pounds, he attracts attention in any gathering. He was born in Cooper county, Mo., October 13, 1850, and traces his ancestry back to John Taylor, of Scotch and Irish descent, who was the founder of that branch of the family on this side of the continent, and who came to America before the great "Stamp Act" and "Boston Tea Party" occurred, and settled among the colonists of South Carolina. He was loyal to the country of his adoption when the great conflict began which announced the birth of the greatest nation on the face of the globe, and gave one of his sons to the cause of freedom. Early in the history of Kentucky John Taylor emigrated to this territory, and here was born and reared his son, upon whom was bestowed the family name of John. He grew to manhood in a locality even then thinly settled, but, being lured by the tales of the new region across the Mississippi, followed the train of emigrants westward, and among the prominent names in the early history of Cooper county, Mo., appears that of John Taylor. He was there married to Miss Cockrell. After remaining in that county until the breaking out of the war he moved to St. Louis. Geo. P. Taylor spent his life in his native state, and attended school at Booneville, conducted by the Rev. Dr. Kemper. He was fourteen years of age when his father removed to St. Louis, and in 1867 removed to Arkansas, settling in Lee county on a plantation, where he remained until 1873. Then he came to Forrest City, and died here in 1879 of yellow fever, his wife preceding him about one year.

George P. Taylor located as a citizen of St. Francis county in 1870, where he was engaged in farming, being married in February, 1873, to Miss Alice Keonce a native of this county. She is the mother of six children—Edgar P., Walter R., Alva J., Alice N., Nannie, and George P., Jr. In 1874, after the reconstruction act, Mr. Taylor was elected representative of St. Francis county, though at that time only twenty-four years of age. He was re-elected in 1878, and in 1880 was appointed county collector. In 1880 he entered into the real estate business at Forrest City. In 1885 the Forrest City Manufacturing company was formed, with Mr. Taylor as president, but a $5,000 fire shortly afterwards caused the dissolution of the company. In 1884 he formed a partnership with Hatcher & Mann in the mercantile business, remaining for two years. December, 1886, he was associated with James M. Stewart as real estate agents and brokers, then the only firm of the kind in the county. He is one of the organizers and is secretary of the Forrest City Hotel company, a corporation with a capital stock of $24,000, and is also a stockholder and director of the Bank of Eastern Arkansas, located at Forrest City, which has a capital stock of $100,000. Both enterprises yield good returns, and their stock is quoted above par. Mr. Taylor also owns several large plantations in this county, and is conceded to be one of its most prominent citizens, especially having the esteem and confidence of the democracy of this locality, as is attested by the fact that for eight consecutive years he was chairman of the county executive committee, and was a delegate to the National Democratic convention of 1888. He was also a delegate to the National Farmers' congress, held in Montgomery, Ala., in November, 1889. Mr. Taylor is a member of the Masonic order, having reached life membership in the state grand lodge, and is one of the most active Knights Templar in the state. He is also a Knight of Pythias and a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and Knights and Ladies of Honor. Their home in Forrest City is one of the most hospitable and contains one of the largest and best-selected libraries in the county, embracing the leading authors in poetry, science, history and fiction. Mr. Taylor is at present a member of the prosperous firm of Taylor & Izard, real estate and insurance agents.

He is active in every movement looking to the elevation of mankind, and enjoys the confidence and esteem of all who know him well. He has been prosperous in business and is, perhaps more than any other man in the county, consulted on all matters of public interest. In politics he is a hard but disinterested worker for the success of the Democratic party.

To Brigadier General Taylor, we make our politest bow, and extend to him again our hearty congratulations and best wishes. In time of peace he will prove a gallant friend. 'Tis time of war he will prove a wise general. We are proud to claim him as a citizen of Arkansas, more especially of St. Francis county and of Forrest City.

THE TAYLOR RIFLES

A Military Company Organized and Named in Honor of the New Brigadier General.

No sooner had the intelligence of the appointment of Gen. George P. Taylor as commander of the Arkansas State troops been received in Forrest City than a movement was started looking toward the organization of a military company and naming it in honor of our distinguished fellow-citizen. A list was passed around and the following names soon attached:

A. C. Word, W. J. Matthews, Sol Lewis, R. L. Arnold, J. T. Brady, John Tipton, Virgil Owen, T. C. Folbre, Jr., Joe Sanders, W. T. Webb, Coday Fowler, Sid Hayes, R. J. Lanier, Walter Sweet, J. B. Casteel, Linn Turley, W. H. Buford, Charles R. Izard, Arthur Sachs, James Fussell, Ed Landvoigt, P. A. Gorman, J. G. Boyle, P. T. Scott, J. Mac Durburrow, M. D. Prewett, J. O. Prewett, D. E. Hoshall, J. H. Davis, Paul Durburrow, W. E. Evans, J. W. Dennis, Jr., George P. Wood, M. C. Hambleton, A. M. Nash, B. R. Shade, J. A. Mason, Rush Stockard, Earl Cary, A. L. Grady, John Q. Roberts, Robert A. Myers, Joe Myers, J. W. Worrel, John Winfield.

There will be a meeting of the company at the courthouse at 7:30 o'clock next Tuesday evening for the purpose of organization, and it is hoped every member will be present. Much of the success of the company will depend upon the character of the officers selected and it is hoped that none but the very best men will be chosen. There is material in the above list for the formation of a first-class military organization, and we are pleased to note the "boys" are going into it with the avowed determination to make the Taylor Rifles second to no militia company in the state.

There are quite a number of young men in the community who have not yet enrolled their names. We trust they will no longer hesitate to do so. It should be a matter of intense local pride to make the Rifles the crack organization of the state. So far, its personnel is all that could be desired, and we would like to see at least seventy-five men in line to answer to the first roll-call.

All honor and success to the Taylor Rifles.

THE HIGHEST AWARD.

Royal Baking Powder has all the Honors—In Strength and Value 20 Per Cent. Above Its Nearest Competitor.

The Royal Baking Powder has the enviable record of having received the highest award for articles of its class—greatest strength, purest ingredients, most perfectly combined—wherever exhibited in competition with others. In the exhibitions of former years, at the Centennial, at Paris, Vienna, and at the various State and Industrial fairs where it has been exhibited, judges have invariably awarded the Royal Baking Powder the highest honors.

At the recent World's Fair the examination for the baking powders awards were made by the experts of the chemical division of the Agricultural Department at Washington. The official report of the tests of the baking powders which were made by this department for the specific purpose of ascertaining which was the best, and which has been made public, shows the leavening strength of the Royal to be 160 cubic inches of carbonic gas per ounce of powder. Of the cream of tartar baking powders exhibited at the Fair, the next highest in strength thus tested contained but 133 cubic inches of leavening gas. The other powders gave an average of 111. The Royal, therefore, was found of 20 per cent. greater leavening strength than its nearest competitor, and 44 per cent. above the average of all the other tests. Its superiority in other respects, however, in the quality of the food it makes as to fineness, delicacy and wholesomeness, could not be measured by figures. It is these high qualities, known and appreciated by the women of the country for so many years, that have caused the sales of the Royal Baking Powders, as shown by statistics, to exceed the sales of all other baking powders combined.

Green Lindsey will have a preliminary hearing before Squire Quinn tomorrow.

The editor desires to thank the young men of Forrest City for an invitation to their grand ball and supper which took place in that city last week, and regrets that sickness prevented his attendance. By the citizens who attended from here it is pronounced the grandest success of the year.—Brinkley Mirror.

The action of the schoolboard last night in taking steps toward the erection of a suitable building will meet the unqualified approbation of the people of this community. It is proposed to commence the work of construction on April 1, and the schoolhouse should be ready for occupancy at the opening of the September term.

The Nineteenth Century club will meet next Wednesday night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gorman. The programme announced for last meeting will be expected of those who were mentioned. There will be an election of officers and other important business, and we are requested to urge upon the members the importance of attending.

Judge Hinton convened and adjourned term of county court this morning. It was hoped the jail would be completed so the structure could be received, but the work was not quite finished. Judge Hinton adjourned court until such time as the contractor is ready to turn the completed edifice over to the county. Probate court will convene Monday morning.

Our correspondents will please mail their communications so as to reach us not later than Thursday noon. We hope all will give their letters special attention, and excel, if that be possible, their excellent work of last year. We want our friends to help us make THE TIMES not only one of the best, but THE best paper in Arkansas. We will reciprocate all favors.

In another column will be found the announcement of A. C. Word, who seeks the office of circuit clerk of this county. Mr. Word is a democrat of the right sort, and if nominated and elected he promises to do his best toward the satisfactory discharge of the duties devolving upon him. His claims are worthy a careful consideration of the democrats of St. Francis county.
